A complete gold signet finger ring of modern dating (AD 1800 onwards)

The finger ring has an oval bezel, with triangular shoulders. The hoop has a rectangular cross section. No maker's marks are present. The oval bezel has decorated with a stylised sun and moon design. The sun is positioned on the upper right part of the bezel and is formed from six elongated diamond v shaped cuts. The moon is positioned on the lower left part of the bezel and is of the crescent shape. It has been made from seven smaller diamond shaped cuts, all of slightly different sizes and set at an angle. The shoulders have been divided into three by two vertical grooves. The central panel has seven short horizontal cuts. Each side panel has 5 to 6 diagonal cuts, with the outer point arranged pointing upwards. At the base of the shoulder, are three small diagonal shaped cuts in a trefoil pattern.

The finger ring has an external diameter of 24.5 mm, an internal diameter of 20.5 mm. The hoop is 4.3 mm wide and 1.8 mm thick. The bezel is 13.1 mm long and 11.5mm wide. It weighs 10.4 g.

The style and design of this finger ring is considered to be less than 300 years old, probably fairly recent in dating, and therefore is not classified under the requirements of the Treasure Act 1996 and is considered to be Not Treasure.
