An Iron Age cast copper-alloy potin (Thurrock MA type) of the Cantiaci (Kent) / South-Eastern Region, dating to the later 2nd century BC (Reece Period 1), c. 120 -100 BC. Obverse: Head of Apollo left; reverse: Butting bull, right. cf. ABC no. 120; VA 1406. Thurrock / Kent Primary potins are closely linked to continental examples and a number of the sub-types classified as Thurrock or Kent Primary types are likely to be continental imports rather than of the Cantiaci.
